How to use this guide:

This facilitator's guide has been designed to accompany the 'Human Trafficking: A modern form of slavery' training manual and training programme, with the aim of providing participants with a complete package of lesson plans and training skills necessary for carrying out short training and information sessions on human trafficking.

The guide includes training tips and guidelines for effective communication skills; lesson plans covering five thematic areas and an appendix of ice breaker activities and additional resources. An updated information sheet is included in the inside cover of the training manual, as a corrigendum to the 2009 edition. Extra PowerPoint slides are also included on the updated 2012 CD and are available to download on the Blue Blindfold website: www.blueblindfold.gov.ie

The training tips and guidelines can be referred to throughout the planning and implementation stages of your training sessions, and will help you to strengthen your facilitation and communication skills.

The five thematic areas covered are:

- Basic Awareness
- Definitions and Legislation
- Health
- Children
- Victim Identification & Referral

Two lesson plans have been developed for each theme and can be delivered as either a one hour information session (short), or as a half day training session (long), depending on how much time is available. The lesson plans can also be easily adapted to meet the needs of participants in various organisations. Each lesson can also function as a stand alone self contained training plan, allowing you to deliver as many or as few training sessions as meet your needs.

For example: Participants working in health care provision will benefit most from the long health training session, while a short information session on basic awareness may also be necessary for those with no prior knowledge of the topic. Depending on the time available and the relevance to participants, you can do a mixture of both long and short lesson plans from these two thematic areas.

The overview at the start of each lesson plan outlines the aims; objectives; duration; materials and advanced preparation needed for each session.

1. Basic Awareness

This thematic area provides a good rounded overview to the topic of Trafficking and covers a number of key learning objectives including:

- To understand the definition of Human Trafficking
- Have an awareness of the legislative framework around Trafficking in Ireland
- Gain an understanding of what to do if you suspect a person is a victim of Trafficking.

The Basic Awareness plans are aimed at those with little or no knowledge of Trafficking. However they can also be used as a refresher before other thematic training plans are delivered, and can be combined effectively with any of the other thematic training plans to create a more comprehensive module.

2. Definitions and Legislation

This training is more legislation based rather than practical. It does not cover any identification or referral practical issues, rather the training provides a useful synopsis of the key definitions and legislation in place around the area of Trafficking, covering both the Irish and International contexts.

The learning objectives of this training includes:

- To understand the definition of Human Trafficking
- Have an awareness of the legislative framework around Trafficking in Ireland
- Be aware of key legislative issues around the Trafficking of children
- Have an overview of European counter-trafficking legislation and the Council of Europe Convention on Trafficking.

This training is particularly useful for those who may not have a frontline role - potentially working with or coming into contact with victims of trafficking (VOTs), but who are desk based with more policy/planning functions.

Remember!

Consult the 'Updates Sheet (Corrigenda)' on the DVD, inside your manual cover, or on www.blueblindfold.gov.ie before you deliver your trainings to ensure all your information is correct and up to date!

3. Trafficking and Health

The trafficking and health training topics in this guide are both practical and informative.

The learning objectives of this training includes:

- An understanding of the health risks and impacts of trafficking on a victim
- To understand what to do if you suspect a client is a VOT
- A familiarity with an ABC of trauma informed care to facilitate working with VOTs.

Both 'Trafficking and Health' training assumes a basic awareness of the key definitions around Trafficking so may need to be preceded/combined with a Basic Awareness session depending on the level of audience knowledge.

4. Victim identification & referral:

This training topic is essential for those who may potentially come into direct contact with suspected victims of trafficking, with the overarching goal being to ensure that appropriate measures can be taken to provide assistance.

Key objectives of the lesson plan are to:

- learn what steps to take if you suspect the person to be a victim of trafficking
- understand the process of identifying a victim
- gain an awareness of the legislative/administrative and principles of protection for victims.

This topic requires some prior knowledge of human trafficking. If participants are new to the subject, you may want to do a short or long Basic Awareness or Definitions & Legislation information session first, depending on who you are training and for what purpose.

For example:

- If participants are working in an area that requires thorough knowledge of the formal identification process, a training session on definitions and legislation may be the most beneficial. You could choose to do either the short or long session as time allows.
- If participants are primarily engaged with potential victims of trafficking as a referral agency, you could choose to do a short or long session on Basic Awareness in advance.

5. Child trafficking:

The training plans focussing on child trafficking aim to provide participants with a basic awareness of human trafficking, while highlighting the issues specific to children. This training will be of interest to those working in statutory and non-statutory agencies with responsibility for child rights and/or services.

Key objectives of the lesson plans are to:

- gain an understanding of Irish legislation on counter-trafficking with regard to children
- give an overview of key identification and referral issues for child victims
- understand the physical and psychological health effects for children.

This topic does not require any prior knowledge of counter-trafficking and can be used as a stand alone training plan for basic awareness of counter-trafficking with regard to children. If participants from your organisation have a good understanding of counter-trafficking issues already, you can focus on delivering the short lesson plan instead, and perhaps adapting one of the other short training plans as appropriate.

Training Tips

- Stay focussed on learning objectives so discussion will follow the right direction.
- Encourage participation by using pair work and small groups for discussions. At the same time, avoid required/ enforced participation.
- Allow for thinking/reflection time in exercises before taking any responses. Learning is not a competition.
- Be aware of participant's needs: Check in with participant's regularly to ensure their needs are met (Do you need more time? Any more questions?)
- Summarise important information at beginning and end of a session.
- Review important concepts with participants, rather than only presenting ideas once.
- Emphasize key words and phrases to point out important information.
- If there are notes on some of the PowerPoint slides – read and use them! They will support your information delivery.
- Use images and symbols to stimulate participant recall.
- The learning experience should be active, not passive: Use a variety of case studies/role plays so participants practice implementing their new skills.
- Ask participants to explain, rather than explaining to participants.
- Timing: Remember that energy levels often decrease after lunch time so be aware that you may need to do an icebreaker activity to get the group warmed up!

Effective Communication Skills:

- Maintain eye contact
- Stand in front of participants, without any barriers such as desk, podium etc.
- Demonstrate enthusiasm by using gestures
- Vary the pitch, tone and volume of the voice
- Speak clearly
- Be inclusive: Encourage questions
- Allow learner's to answer each other's questions
- Emphasise important points
- Make smooth transitions from one topic to another
- Present one idea at a time.

Training Checklist

- Am I speaking clearly and confidently? Will all my audience hear me?
- What questions or objections am I likely to get, and do I know how to answer them?

Evaluations and feedback

This Facilitator's Guide is a new initiative, which aims to support the delivery of 'Counter Trafficking Training Modules' by a wide range of persons, in a wide range of settings and a variety of formats. The guide will support you to tailor make trainings to suit your own needs and those of your colleagues.

As this is the first edition of this guide, we would very much welcome feedback from you, the users, on your experience of using this resource. Feel free to feed back on the good and the bad! It's important that we receive realistic and practical feedback on how well this resource works for you. This in turn will help us adapt the guide in the future, where possible, to make it more streamlined and effective.

IOM Dublin would very much welcome your feedback on the following key questions:

1. What do you feel worked best for you in this guide?
2. What do you feel was not clear or did not work well for you in this guide?
3. Any suggestions on how the content and design could be improved?

An evaluation feedback sheet is included at the back of this guide and we would very much encourage you to complete it. Please contact IOM Dublin at iomdublin@iom.int with your feedback. We look forward to hearing from you.

Some ideas to get you started

Below are some ideas of how you can use the training ideas in this guide, and how you can also mix and match them to suit your needs. This list is certainly not exhaustive, feel free to make your own combinations, and do let us know in your evaluation feedback as to what has worked well for you.

Examples:

Full day trainings, which combine two long trainings together over a one day period:

- Basic Awareness and Health for those working in the health sector
- Basic Awareness and Children for those with a child protection/welfare remit
- Basic Awareness and Definitions and Legislation for those who may not meet VOTs in the course of their work but need a more policy based training.

Short trainings:

- These trainings can act as both refreshers, as well as a brief intro for those who do not need an indepth training on the particular theme.

Mix and match trainings:

- For example a short Basic Awareness training as a refresher coupled with any other long training of relevance to your group / work setting. You can mix and match in any combination of themes and with short or long trainings as best suits your needs.

Pre and post training questionnaires

Your key tools to help plan and evaluate your training!

should all be answered in advance, so that you can tailor the training to suit!

Assessing the needs of your participants is vital to ensure that you plan and adapt the training for maximum impact.

(A) Pre Training Questionnaire (Sample in your resource folder on DVD):

Aim	Method	Remember!	Timing
To learn about participants prior knowledge of subject, and what they are hoping to gain from the training.	Use template from your DVD. Email around to all participants prior to training. Ideal to circulate around a week in advance. Make sure you give a deadline for them to return it to you, so that you can adapt training a little if you wish, according to feedback.	You can also give this out on the day of training however the downside with this approach is that this does not give much time for any modifications to be made to the training schedule. It is still worthwhile however, and will always serve as a useful comparison to the post training questionnaire when evaluating the impact of the training.	Pre training planning time

(B) Post Training Questionnaire (Sample on DVD to be adapted appropriately):

Aim	Method	Remember!	Timing
To assess the impact of the training on the participants knowledge of CT thematic areas, and to rate how they received the training style and approach.	Use template from your DVD. This can also be adapted to best suit your needs. Hand out to all participants of training. Make sure you leave around 15 minutes at the end of your training time for completion of the feedback sheet. This sheet will help you evaluate your training and also assist with adapting or revising trainings for future groups.	Make sure you keep an eye on your timings as you go along through the half day training time. You may need to adjust timings here and there depending on the dynamics of the group. Ensure sufficient time will be left at the end of the day for feedback.  The feedback from your training participants will be an important resource for you in compiling your own evaluation sheet at the end of your training delivery.	15 mins

Remember!

The fact that the first video we show in this training is in the Irish context is important. It reminds participants that Trafficking happens in Ireland, into Ireland and from Ireland.

Remember!

Remember!

Icebreakers are meant to be fun! Something to put the participants at ease. A small fun activity that everyone can participate in – does not at all need to be linked to the training theme!

To gain a good basic understanding of the definition of Human Trafficking.	Exercise  Visual DVD 14 Irish television campaign  Manual Overview page 6  PowerPoint slides No's 6-8 and 9-17. ### Remember!

The exercise can be done over a cup of coffee or a short break. It is often easier for people to write their ideas down in a more informal setting. Leave a bunch of markers at each page.

For the GROUPWORK, it's useful to make sure to include case studies E and G. E is a case of smuggling, and G refers to a child, and both of these will serve to highlight key issues for the group. Then pick some or all of the others depending on group numbers.

Remember!

For most people a basic awareness is all that is needed of the legislation.

If a more detailed overview of the legislation is required, then see the 'Legislation and Definitions' trainings.

This training highlights the administrative framework (i.e. the structures put in place to prevent and combat THB) as well as the key points of the admin arrangements.

It is always worth drawing participants attention to the information boxes in the manual relating to Children. Read these out for their additional info.

Remember!

Icebreakers are meant to be fun! Something to put the participants at ease. A small fun activity that everyone can participate in – does not at all need to be linked to the training theme! Better if it is not!

The fact that the first video we show in this training is in the Irish context is important. It reminds participants that Trafficking happens in Ireland, into Ireland and from Ireland.

The Palermo Protocol definition of Trafficking is worded in a notoriously confusing way! Ask audience for their initial reaction when you show slide 8.

The use of the framework of Act/Means/Purpose is a useful and easier way to break down the definition and make it easier to grasp.

Remember!

Do a run through yourself of the visuals before your presentation to make sure you are familiar with them Trafficking is a complex process and is generally easier to understand if it is thought of as a process beginning with recruitment of the potential VOT, their movement and then moving on to their exploitation

Ask the group at various intervals between DVDs whether they have any questions and make sure issues are clear before moving on.

Remember!

There are many text boxes throughout the manual relating to children and Trafficking. Read through these and you will find relevant snippets of information which your group may be interested in.

Have a look at the separate full training within this facilitators guide which focuses specifically on Trafficking and Children

DVD no 8 is fairly hard hitting and may upset members in the group.

Remember!

The exercise can be done over a cup of coffee or a short break. It is often easier for people to write their ideas down in a more informal setting. Leave a bunch of markers at each page.

For the GROUPWORK, it's useful to make sure to include case studies E and G. E is a case of smuggling, and G refers to a child, and both of these will serve to highlight key issues for the group. Then pick some or all of the others depending on group numbers.

To gain a good basic understanding of the definition of Human Trafficking.	Exercise Overview Visual PowerPoint slides No's 6-8 Manual page 6	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>EXERCISE: ask participants for words which they think of when they think of Trafficking – see what they already know! Write these on a flip chart – can be used for revision later.</li> <li>Read the overview from page 6 of manual and emphasise to participants how recent this phenomenon is, and how recent the legislative response is. However this is still a 'modern day form of slavery'.</li> <li>Show slide 6 and start with the UN definition of Trafficking from Palermo Protocol. Read definition and emphasise 3 key stages: Act, means and purpose.</li> <li>Show slide 7 &amp; 8.</li> </ul>	25 mins
Remember! The Palermo Protocol definition of Trafficking is worded in a notoriously confusing way! The use of the framework of Act/Means/Purpose is a useful and easier way to break down the definition and make it easier to grasp. If participants already have a basic understanding of trafficking, you can shorten this to a brief review via open questions.

Remember!

The exercise can be done over a cup of coffee or a short break. It is often easier for people to write their ideas down in a more informal setting. Leave a bunch of markers at each page.

For the GROUPWORK, it's useful to make sure to include case studies E and G. E is a case of smuggling, and G refers to a child, and both of these will serve to highlight key issues for the group. Then pick some or all of the others depending on group numbers.

Post Training Questionnaire

Ice Breaker Activities for Training Sessions

Ice breaker activities are often used in training sessions to encourage conversation and to increase energy within the group. They are used at the start of a session to reduce possible tension and anxiety, and also to immediately involve the class in the training.

Characteristics of good icebreakers/energizers:

- Don't take too much time- optimum length is 10-20 minutes
- Involve everyone
- Encourage trust and cooperation within a small group.
- Make us feel a little bit challenged, but not uncomfortable
- Result in our feeling more a part of the group
- Start conversations and interaction
- Show us interesting new things about people we have known for some time

When to use icebreakers/energizers?

- At the beginning of a training session
- After lunch to increase energy
- After a difficult or intense session

6 sample icebreakers

1. Migration-themed Example:

Break into pairs and ask the following questions 1) have you ever lived in another country? 2) If you were to live in another country, where would it be and why? When you are finished, be prepared to introduce your partner with his/her answers to the group. [Note for trainer: Write the answers down on a flip chart. You can refer to this during the training to show high levels of migration/ trends for particular nationalities to and from particular countries.]

2. "Learning from Experience"

Have participants introduce themselves and explain one thing they have learned the hard way about the topic you are covering. Post their "lessons learned" on a flip chart. Refer to them throughout the class.

3. "Challenges and Objectives"

Divide the class into small teams. Instruct teams to identify their challenges in the topic and their objectives for the training. Post work on flip charts. Have them introduce their team and share their work with the rest of the class.

4. "Questions"

Have each person write a question they want answered in the training on a Post-it (sticky) note or piece of paper. Have them introduce themselves and their question. Then post all questions on a wall chart. During or at the end of training, ask the group to answer the questions.

5. "Brain Teaser"

Use a quiz as an ice breaker. Ask questions of common knowledge about any topic, or a number of topics. There should be both easy and difficult questions. Ask members to answer individually, and then give them a few minutes to work in small groups to finish answering the questions.

Sample Quiz: The easiest quiz in the world – tell the group that the pass rate is 4 answers out of 8 so all should pass! This quiz as you will see is not as easy as it looks but lots of fun!

Q1 - How long was the 100 years war?

116 years

Q2 - Where are Panama hats made?

Ecuador

Q3 - What month is the Russian October Revolution commemorated in Russia?

November

Q4 - What are camel hair brushes made of?

Skunk hair

Q5 - What animal are the canary islands named after?

Dogs

Q6 - What was the real name of King George 6th?

Albert

Q7 - Where have Chinese gooseberries originated from?

New Zealand

Q8 - What colour is the black box of an aeroplane?

Orange

6. "You did what!?"

Give each person a 3 x 5 card and ask the group to write down something true that nobody else in the room knows about them. Mix up the cards and put them in a box or hat. Have each person pick a card and read it out loud. Ask the group to try and guess who wrote the card.
